Join Baruch's Self-Study for Re-Accreditation

What is the Accreditation Self-Study?
- A 5-year review process that demonstrates that Baruch continues to meet high standards of quality and supports student success and institutional improvement.
- Baruch is accredited by the Middle States Commission on Higher Education (MSCHE).
- Our next review is in 2029.
- Serve on a working group focused on one of the MSCHE standards (e.g., student learning, governance, or resources).
- Participate in meetings, discussions, and evidence review sessions (1-3 hours per month).
- Contribute ideas to help strengthen Baruch for current and future students.

Who Can Join?
- All are welcome!
- Open to faculty, staff, students, and alumni.
- Deadline: October 31, 2025

Baruch College Celebrates 2025 LGBTQIA+ History Month

LGBTQIA+ History Month is commemorated during the month of October, celebrating and recognizing the rich history and contributions of the lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, queer, intersex, and asexual people. The LGBTQIA+ History Month Theme 2025 Living But Least The Middle We Survive. This year's theme celebrates the power and legacy of LGBTQIA+ communities whose stories, struggles, and contributions have been left out of the mainstream narrative. Living But Least Middle MUST ensure that a celebration is a collection of the stories that matter our communities.

Persistence in the face of adversity
Resilience through struggle and renewal
Bravery in a season of strength and compassion
Joy in the midst of hardship and sorrow
Equality as a constant state of

By honoring the contributions of LGBTQIA+ individuals and movements throughout history, we acknowledge how their courage and leadership have advanced social progress, broadened freedoms, and inspired future generations to continue the work of building inclusive communities. We invite all members of the Baruch Community to join us in celebration of LGBTQIA+ History Month.
